Find Support. Meet SLA's. Drive Business Value.

Today's IT ecosystems consist of products from many vendors. Trying to find a single source of day-to-day operational support that can do justice to all these products can be daunting, if not challenging or impossible.

In-house resources are expensive to recruit, train and maintain. All of business outsource deals offer the world, using a "cookie cutter" approach and deliver in bite-sized snippets that never satisfy.

Actian has you covered

When it comes to managing your Actian product portfolio there is no better solution than an Actian Managed Service to ensure maximum return on your investment in Actian.

Our Managed Services can be tailored to suit your unique requirements;

Can't find a new DBA to replace a departing resource?

- Our Remote DBA (rDBA) Service offering is designed to dovetail into your existing infrastructure and application support team hierarchies and become your DBA.

Your IT team are capable of day-to-day support, but they need a "safety net" when the unexpected happens.

- Our Premium Service offering is designed to provide that "safety net" for the unexpected. You manage your system day-to-day; we provide named resources that learn the intricacies that system so you can call on us when you need emergency support, advice and guidance, product issue management and regular system health checks.

You have support covered, but how do you monitor your system?

- Our Enterprise Management Service (EMS) can deploy our enhanced Enterprise Management Appliance (EMA) on-site to monitor and alert your team of any issues that occur in your Actian product ecosystem. Stand-alone or packaged with another Managed Service the EMA is designed from the ground up for monitoring critical systems built on Actian technology.

Need something unique for your Actian product data ecosystem?

- Whether it is an operating system that you can't find support for, a DataConnect data integration no one else will touch or an application written in ABF or OpenROAD, as long as there is an Actian product involved in the equation Actian Managed Services can tailor a solution that keeps your critical business system built on Actian technology running.

Actian is committed to your success. Tell us what you need, and we will work with you to develop a solution that delivers.
